

Price of a 1 5-meter distribution box

AI Overview

Installing a 1.5-meter distribution box typically costs between $450 and $1,500, depending on box specifications, labor, and installation complexity.

Distribution Box Cost Components

Material Cost: The price of a standard residential distribution box varies based on size, amperage, number of circuits, and material. For a 1.5-meter box, which is considered a large residential or small commercial unit, the cost can range from $150 to $900 for the enclosure and internal components such as breakers and fuses.

Labor Cost: Electricians typically charge $40 to $120 per hour, with installation of a large distribution box taking 4 to 10 hours depending on accessibility, wiring complexity, and whether it is a new installation or replacement. Labor can therefore add $200 to $1,200 to the total cost.

Additional Factors:

Indoor vs Outdoor Installation: Weatherproof or outdoor-rated boxes cost more due to enhanced materials and sealing requirements.

Permits and Code Compliance: Local electrical permits may add $50 to $200 to the project.

Complex Wiring or Upgrades: If the installation requires new conduit runs, additional breakers, or surge protection, expect a 20–40% increase in total cost.

Typical Price Range

For a 1.5-meter distribution box installation in a standard residential setting:

- Low-end estimate: $450–$600 (basic box, indoor, minimal labor)
- Mid-range estimate: $700–$1,200 (standard box, moderate labor, some wiring complexity)
- High-end estimate: $1,300–$1,500+ (premium box, outdoor installation, complex wiring, permits included)

Summary

The total cost for installing a 1.5-meter distribution box depends on box size, material, amperage, number of circuits, labor rates, and installation complexity. Homeowners should budget $450 to $1,500 for a typical installation, with higher costs for outdoor or commercial-grade setups. Obtaining multiple quotes from licensed electricians is recommended to ensure competitive pricing and compliance with local electrical codes.
